Some of our Knox College colleagues kindly answered our calls for help and provided much-needed expertise: Lance Factor, Mikiso Hane, Edward Niehus, Jorge Prats, Dennis Schneider, and Ross Vander Meulen. Such interdisciplinary collaboration is routine at Knox College, and it is one of the reasons why we have found it such a rewarding place to teach and work.

Paul Verduin has spent several years working through the maze of Hanks family genealogy, and he has generously shared his findings with us. We are especially grateful that he agreed to permit a brief outline of the Hanks genealogy to appear as an appendix in this work. James Harvey Young helped us with some nineteenth-century medical and pharmacological terminology. Michael Burlingame unselfishly shared important materials that were of great benefit and supported the project in many ways. We are especially grateful to him and to our friends and fellow scholars Robert Bray, Robert Johannsen, Mark Plummer, and Terence A. Tanner for the advice and encouragement that they have provided.

Three organizations have provided financial support in the form of subventions toward the costs of publication: the Abraham Lincoln Association, the Illinois State Historical Society, and the New Salem Lincoln League. We are honored that the officers and members of these organizations chose to endorse our efforts in this unequivocal form, and we thank them for their vote of confidence.

We must acknowledge the genealogical help that has been tendered by diligent and generous family historians across the country: Marilyn G. Ames, Champaign, Illinois; Janet H. Anderson, Houston, Texas; David Braswell, Belleville, Illinois; Lola G. Clark, Kilbourne, Illinois; Marie T. Eberle, Edwardsville, Illinois; Anna J. Foley, Greensburg, Indiana; Genevieve Goodpasture, Victoria, Texas; Phyllis Hodgen Hansen, Springfield, Illinois; Barbara Hevron, Newburg, Indiana; Margaret Hohimer, Springfield, Illinois; Mark D. Irwin, Belleville, Illinois; James P. Jones, Raleigh, North Carolina; Eileen R. Keithley, Bath, Illinois; James Steven Miles, Chicago, Illinois; James E. Remer, Leawood, Kansas; Rosella H. Finally, we are grateful to the staff of the University of Illinois Press and in particular to Richard L. Wentworth, director of the Press, and Theresa L. Sears, managing editor.
